Your Havingness

Deprogramming Distrust of Yourself and of God

Dear SHAPE Community & Graduates of Clairvoyant Programs, AHA! & Our Psychic Tools & Life Mastery Practices Course,

What an amazing ride we've all been on these past twelve months—and it isn't over by a long-shot. None of us has been left untouched. Whether you've been the one personally strapped into the Kingda Ka Mega-Coaster of life circumstances heading for the 400-foot drop or you've been the one praying for someone who is, it's been the agony and ecstasy of rides. One thing is getting clearer and clearer to many of us, though, is that we're all in this ride together—and, we're not going to let it end up as the Hindenburg or the Titanic of maiden voyages.

While much of the world's attention has been on a global pandemic that has dramatically changed the way we all live, that was just one of the many headline-grabbing crises that we've been involved in. If we were to look at the bigger picture, however, we'd see that all of these events of historic proportions are all reflections of the new era of The Great Transformation we are undergoing. As humanity and a global community, we are definitely going through our metamorphosis—that part where our previous form as a society has turned quite gooey!

If we're all undergoing some kind of massive metamorphosis, when are we all going to fly free as pretty monarchs? Some of us may not transform into butterflies at all! With all the nuclear and other toxic waste in the world, who knows, some of us may have mutated into....Mothra! Hahahaha.... Remember the 1961 Japanese Sci-Fi movie starring a giant moth who was the goddess of peace for the people of "Infant Island"? Mothra went on to become the third most popular monster in Japan, close behind Godzilla and King Kong. She even guest starred in 11 Godzilla movies besides starring in her own trilogy. Well, of course, the story builds on the underlying theme of super-powers hungry for wealth and power testing their nuclear weapons on unsuspecting islanders and get into fairy-trafficking for profit and goes further downhill from there. Of course, it sort of ends happily ever after—how can it not?

So, some us may discover that we're butterflies when the metamorphosis is complete, whereas others of us may emerge from our goo as descendants of a glowing giant moth! But, if I recall correctly, Mothra had this laser-beam thingy that vaporized everything it touched. That'd make blowing pictures effortless, right?

Speaking of mutated monsters, blowing pictures, and transformation, how have your growth periods been? I am certain that at the very least, they have been interesting. After all, we ARE living in interesting times, aren't we? Ve-e-r-r-y. Just remember, that we're all here to learn and grow and heal. And, it's time for a lot of field work in our curriculum. Field work means we have to take all that we've learned so far and apply it in the field—in our daily life. That's so we can gain certainty that we've learned what we needed to learn. Demonstrating what you've learned and sharing it in your daily life establishes your learning—and certainly transforms the world around you.

In God We Trust:
Your Havingness
Deprogramming Distrust of Yourself and of God

You've been continuing to explore the limits of your havingness in many different ways. What's made surfing the waves of health, economic, political, social, and psychic upheavals this past year more challenging may be that a lot of heretofore hidden, unattended fear has been coming up for its parole hearing in everyone. Of course, for those of you who have been proactively upping your havingness, fear keeps popping up, since the only real limits to your havingness have to do with fear. When you're afraid, even unconsciously, you put on the brakes and run for the hills at the same time—where's the havingness in that?

If you keep working on your havingness, however, you eventually get to that limitless havingness. Many of us have referred to that limitless havingness as God. God never takes anything away, because God is total havingness and there is no lack in God. So, God only gives. God's Grace. All-Loving-Givingness. And, we're all beneficiaries of that givingness. The only question for us is: How much of God's Grace can we have?

In order to answer that question, here's another question for you first: How often do you find yourself a bit impatient? You could be impatient with someone else, yourself, or the world. But, have you really looked into what brings about that impatience? That part's actually pretty simple: Lack of trust.

I'm certain that you've attempted to be patient more than once in your life. But, you've probably discovered that you can't seem to make yourself be patient. You can't really do something to get yourself to experience patience, can you? That's because patience is a function of something, not a thing you can make yourself be or do. Patience comes from a certain kind of havingness. Then, what do you need to have in order to be patient?

Ah! That's where your trust is needed. When you have trust, you are naturally patient without thinking about having to be patient. When you have trust, you have certainty that what you are asking for will show up for you. Then, rather than anxiously waiting for it or demanding that things hurry up, you move on with what you intuitively know that you need to do next and you continue to know that what you need is already on its way. When you trust, you also know that you're not investing your trust in the thing showing up, but that you have your trust in That Which Gives All. With trust, whatever it is that you ask for is already within you. Then, all that's left for you to do is to invite it to come out of you and play!

To help you do that, we've put together our March SHAPE Remote Zoom Weekend Intensive to explore what it is to place our trust in God. It sounds easy—and it is—but, once again, can you have it? For example, can you fully trust yourself? If you don't have full trust in yourself as the spirit that you are, how would you be able to trust God? Remember, how you relate to yourself is the most you can relate to anyone else, especially God. To the extent that you love yourself, you can love another. To the extent you can trust yourself, you can trust another. What you can't have of yourself, you can't have of another, especially God. Why is that? Well, that's one of the things we're going to look at during this intensive as you deprogram yourself of the distrust of yourself—and of God!

We're looking forward to being with you in spirit and in the body via technology on at least March 20-21 and up through Tuesday, March 23 for those of you who opt for the full ride with all the bonus Zoom Q&A & Talk-Story Get-Togethers. (Who's going to provide the ice cream this time?)

May the Light of Truth continue to illuminate your every step and the Love of God guide you in your every choice.

With gratitude, love, and a Big Woo-Hoo!

Michael
